The Mission
The mission of the Graduate School of Education is to provide students with the knowledge, skills and ethics needed to serve effectively as educational leaders and practitioners in the face of language and cultural diversity, new technology and a rapidly changing global environment. The programs offered reflect the shift in orientation from teacher training to teacher education, in which teachers are involved in developing their own theories of teaching, in understanding the nature of teacher decision making, and in developing strategies for critical self-awareness and self-evaluation. Through Anaheim University's rich learning experiences and state of the art approach towards education, both experienced and prospective teachers will gain a comprehensive understanding of curriculum, the roles of teachers and students, methodology, and teaching skills as well as all of the theoretical background and practical applications they need to succeed.

Doctor of Education in TESOL

Work Full Time & Study Online
The AU Ed.D. in TESOL degree program allows you to study online while working full time and fulfilling your personal responsibilities. All the courses are taught online and students participate in two required 4-day residential sessions, which are typically held to coincide with a weekend.

Who is the Ed.D. in TESOL degree program for?
The Ed.D. in TESOL is designed for students who have completed an MA TESOL or MA Applied Linguistics or relevant area of education and who are interested in developing the technical and professional knowledge and research skills that are needed to assume leadership positions in the field of TESOL. Students completing the Ed.D will be equipped to work as directors of programs where English is taught as a second or foreign language, contribute to English language teacher education programs, engage in research into language teaching and testing, and develop language courses and teaching materials amongst others.

Outstanding Faculty
One of the primary deciding factors for students who choose the Anaheim University Graduate School of Education’s Doctor of Education in TESOL is the quality of the highly esteemed faculty who teach AU students in weekly real-time online classes via high definition webcam. In particular, the designer of the Ed.D. in TESOL is world-renowned linguist Dr. Rod Ellis, who was awarded the Duke of Edinburgh prize for the best book in applied linguistics for his Oxford University Press classic “The Study of Second Language Acquisition”. Dr. Ellis is joined by some of the world’s most renowned linguists and acclaimed TESOL authors for such publishers as Oxford University Press, Cambridge University Press, Thomson Publishing, Prentice-Hall, Longman, Palgrave Macmillan and McGraw-Hill. These include President Emeritus and designer of Anaheim University’s MA in TESOL program Dr. David Nunan, and AU professors Denise Murray, MaryAnn Christison and Andy Curtis who are former Presidents of TESOL, the world’s largest language teaching organization. 100% of the AU Ed.D. in TESOL faculty are regular plenary speakers at various international TESOL conferences and are considered to be experts in their field by the TESOL community.
Study Suggestions
Students are responsible for being knowledgeable of the course syllabus and course grading rubrics. Also, in order to assist you allocate your time, each course guide contains a weekly program breakdown. It is a suggestion only, but one that students are advised to adhere to as closely as possible to keep up with the demanding schedule of the course. Below is an example:

Weekly Program
1. Look briefly through the set readings, the tutorial questions, and the assignment for the week’s work. (15 minutes)
2. Complete the set reading, making notes on the tutorial questions as you do. (4 hours)
3. Discuss the tutorial questions / tasks with other students via the online discussion forum. (3 hours)
4. Take part in one of the interactive tutorials. (1.5 hours)
5. Review the transcript of the real-time online class and make notes. (1 hour)
6. Further reading/note taking on the topic using the Anaheim library resources. (8 hours)
7. On going work on assessment 1 or 2. (2 hours 15 mins)

Educational Objectives
The program aims to develop the knowledge and skills to:
- form a critical understanding of the interdisciplinary literature that informs the field of TESOL
- evaluate research-based evidence and consider its relevance to TESOL
- design and evaluate curricula and instructional materials
- undertake a leadership role in TESOL
- design and conduct research studies that address pedagogical issues relevant to TESOL

We offer a discounted on-campus housing option for the residential session — the cost varies depending on location. You may opt for alternate accommodations. The cost of travel will vary, depending on your distance from the residential session and your mode of transportation. Anaheim University does not provide visa services. For Ed.D. in TESOL students attending the four-day residential sessions, it is the students’ responsibility to ensure that they have taken care of proper visa procedures, if required. Any students traveling to the residential should have travel insurance, and any local students should have medical emergency insurance.

 Assumes completion in 19 terms. Maximum cost of program is $45,675 (records fees of $200 for each additional term up to 5 years from date of matriculation).

US Military: Anaheim University’s programs are approved for VA benefits.

Diplomatic and Military Service Discount: From January 1, 2006, those who have served their government through either diplomatic or military service may be eligible for a 10% discount.

Course textbooks are not included in the program fees, and are expected to average U.S. $200/course. Dissertation publishing and textbook fees are extra. Doctoral students are also required to have a reserve fund of $2000 for research materials. Refer to page 18 for details.

Affordable Pay-As-You-Learn System: Pay for only one course at a time, or receive a 10% discount on tuition by paying 100% of your program fees at the time you enroll. Students may make payment by check, credit card (Visa, MasterCard, American Express or Discover), money order or bank transfer.

An extension may be granted by the Director of the Ed.D. program to students requiring more time to complete the program.

Total number of required units including dissertation & two four-day seminars: 76 units

Method of Instruction:

online learning: reading of textbooks and submission of assignments; weekly 90-minute real time online classes and discussion forums with professor & students residential sessions: two four-day seminars are held in California or in other selected locations in the world, most commonly in Asia. (Anaheim University does not provide visa services. It is the students’ responsibility to ensure that they have taken care of proper visa procedures, if required).

Course Duration: Each course is equivalent to 180 hours of study over a 9-week period. New courses begin every 10 weeks.

Degree Program Duration: The Ed.D. in TESOL degree program will take under four years to complete. Maximum time allotted to complete program ~ 5 years from date of matriculation. Students may be granted an extension to their program at the discretion of the Director of the Ed.D. program. Under no circumstances may the Ed.D. in TESOL program be completed in less than two years from the date of initial enrollment or more than ten years from the date of initial enrollment.

Anticipated Student Learning Outcomes

• identify and express informed views about a variety of theoretical and practical issues relevant to TESOL
• work collaboratively with peers
• design courses for specific groups of L2 learners and teachers
• prepare teaching materials and tests for specific groups L2 learners and teachers
• evaluate published research related to TESOL
• design, implement and report research studies in the preferred research tradition
• critically consider their professional development and assist in the professional development of others in the field

Course Descriptions

Students will complete courses in four areas: Studies in Applied Linguistics, Aspects of Language Teaching, Professional Development, and Research Methods for Language Teachers. In addition, students will complete a dissertation.

EDU 700 Instructed Second Language Acquisition

This course investigates research that has investigated the effects of form-focused instruction on L2 acquisition. It draws on theory and research in the field of second language acquisition and examines a number of options for conducting form-focused instruction. Students will be expected to use their knowledge of existing research to prepare a research proposal for a study using their own learners or a group of learners with whom they are familiar.
EDU 701 Interlanguage Pragmatics
This course will familiarize participants with research investigating interlanguage pragmatics and examine how instruction can effectively develop L2 pragmatic competence. Students will be required to prepare a set of teaching materials for teaching ONE speech act (e.g., requests or compliments). They will also be asked to try out and evaluate their materials on their own students or students with whom they are familiar.

EDU 702 Individual Learner Differences in Language Learning & Teaching
This course reviews research that has investigated a number of key individual learner factors (e.g., language aptitude, motivation, learner beliefs) and how these impact on language teaching. The course also considers how individual differences in classroom learners can be accommodated instructionally. There will be opportunity for students to analyze qualitative data in order to investigate individual learner factors. Students will be required to carry out a qualitative study of two language learners – one successful and one unsuccessful learner.

EDU 703 Sociolinguistics and Language Teaching
The aim of this course is to introduce participants to concepts and issues in sociolinguistics which are relevant to their lives as prospective or practicing language teachers. The course combines topics from two theoretical and research fields: (1) sociolinguistics, which examines the relationship between language and society, sometimes focusing more on learning about linguistic matters and sometimes more on learning about social structures (the latter often referred to as the ‘sociology of language’); (2) language teaching, which includes the examination of what happens in the classroom with teachers and learners, and also how these practices relate to the broader socio-political context in which the teaching and learning take place.

EDU 704 Discourse Analysis for Language Teachers
This course will define ‘discourse’ and introduce students to a range of models for describing and critically evaluating authentic oral and written discourse.

EDU 705 Language Testing
This course will develop students’ critical understanding of different types of language tests, their theoretical underpinnings, their design, and the uses to which they can be put.

EDU 710 Curriculum Design
The aim of this course is to present theoretical and empirical aspects of curriculum development. Participants will look at tensions between different philosophical approaches to education, and at how different philosophical approaches play out in practice.

EDU 711 Technology and Language Education
This course takes the view that technology can be both tool and tutor in language education. The role of technology in language education is examined as an aspect of curriculum design, that is, the starting point is needs analysis and resulting curriculum, rather than technology. The course will describe the characteristics of various applications such as email, computer-assisted language learning (CALL) and webpages. It will help participants evaluate the role of information technology in language teaching and learning. Participants will explore the use of technology in different educational settings, and how to integrate it in course design. Students will be required to develop a unit of work for an ELT class, integrating technology and to prepare a research proposal to investigate an aspect of technology in language education.

EDU 712 ELT Materials Development
The course aims to help the participants to gain the knowledge and to develop the awareness & skills required by an expert practitioner of materials development for language learning & teaching. It intends in particular to help them to become principled and effective materials evaluators, adapters, writers, users & researchers. In addition it aims to make use of materials development to deepen the participants’ understanding of second language acquisition, of language use & of principled pedagogy as well as contributing to the further development of analytical, critical & creative thinking skills.

EDU 720 ELT Leadership and Management
This course applies leadership and management theories and approaches from business and industry to the field of ELT in a variety of contexts, including English programs in English-speaking countries,
TESOL departments in universities, ESL programs in community colleges, EFL departments in non-English-speaking countries, and commercial ELT centers and schools around the world. The course discusses the roles and responsibilities of effective leaders and managers and the essential skills required of effective leaders and managers, such as strategic planning and financial management. Students will be required to develop a process for developing a quality assurance system in a context of their choosing, and prepare a business plan for a project in an ELT context of their choosing.

EDU 721 Language Teacher Education
This course will examine the socio-cultural perspectives on the following:
1. how teachers learn to teach a second language
2. the nature of language
3. how second languages are taught and learned
4. social, cultural, and historical influences on the second language teaching profession
5. the spectrum and roles of second language teachers’ professional development

EDU 730 Qualitative Research Methods
This course will define qualitative research and differentiate it from quantitative research, describe the evolution of qualitative research, provide a framework for doing qualitative research, present the ‘ground rules’ for doing qualitative research, and demonstrate the centrality of the writing process to qualitative research.

EDU 731 Quantitative Research Methods
This course will enable students to design and evaluate quantitative studies of language learning and teaching and will equip them with the statistical tools for analyzing data.

EDU 732 Dissertation Proposal Writing
This course will assist students in preparing and critiquing a research proposal.

EDU 706 Special Topic
The purpose of these Special Topic courses is to allow the student to work in a community of practice with other candidates and advisors and completes a range of activities, which help them work towards their dissertation.

EDU 713 Special Topic
The purpose of these Special Topic courses is to allow the student to work in a community of practice with other candidates and advisors and completes a range of activities, which help them work towards their dissertation.

EDU 733 Dissertation
In this course, students will conduct the research for the dissertation and write and defend the dissertation.

Dissertation
General
All students will be required to complete a dissertation. Students will be able to enrol for dissertation credits once all course work has been successfully completed and students have also taken and passed the Comprehensive Examination.

The Dissertation is the culminating component of the Ed.D. The dissertation should report an original piece of research and should make a significant contribution to the field of TESOL. The following are criteria that students should bear in mind when preparing their proposal:

• The topic should be interesting and substantial.
• The research should aim to fill a gap in the scholarly literature.
• The methodology chosen for the research should be appropriate and the student should be able to provide a rationale for the choice of methodology.
• The dissertation should be written in accordance with the standard conventions for reporting research (i.e., those of the American Psychological Association Manual, 6th Edition).
• The author should provide implications of the findings of the research for educational
Procedure for planning and writing the dissertation

1. Students should identify the topic they are interested in and discuss with the Director of the Ed.D. whom they might approach to engage in a preliminary discussion of their topic. This should take place before students commence EDU 732 Dissertation Proposal Writing.

2. By completing EDU 732 students will be able to establish the composition of their Dissertation Committee (see below).

3. Students will work with the professor during EDU 732 to complete a draft research proposal.

4. Students enrolled in EDU 732 will be required to post their draft research proposal on the course webpage for discussion. They will also be expected to engage critically with other students’ draft proposals.

5. Students revise their research proposal, taking into account comments received from fellow students and their Dissertation Committee.

6. The members of the Dissertation Committee must sign off on the proposal.

7. Students can now begin work on their dissertation. They should keep in regular contact with the members of their Dissertation Committee by email to discuss any issues that arise and to present draft chapters of the dissertation for comment.

8. A draft copy of the dissertation should be presented to the Dissertation Committee for comment.

9. After making appropriate revisions, the student will submit the dissertation electronically.

10. Anaheim University will schedule an oral defense of the thesis.

Dissertation Committee

A Dissertation Committee will consist of a minimum of three academic staff members as advisors, one of whom will be the primary advisor. Usually, these will be members of the Anaheim University academic faculty, and at least one will be on the faculty of Anaheim University. However, AU may sometimes appoint academic staff from other institutions. Committee members from outside of AU must be holders of a doctorate degree, have faculty status in an accredited university, and have knowledge that is related directly to the topic of your dissertation. Outside faculty must also submit a CV to the Director of the Ed.D. program, who decides whether the person is qualified to serve on the committee. The student will be able to nominate the primary adviser but AU reserves the right to make the final decision regarding the students’ primary adviser.

Students are expected to demonstrate an ability to work independently on their dissertation. However, students will also be expected to keep in regular contact through email with the primary adviser and, where appropriate, with other committee members. The primary adviser will also request periodic reports from the students about the progress being made.

When the final draft of the thesis is ready and has been signed off by the students’ Dissertation Committee it should be submitted electronically to AU.

Oral Dissertation Defense

The Dissertation Examining Committee is responsible for evaluating the quality of the dissertation. It will consist of the members of the student’s Dissertation Committee. In addition, one other member of AU’s academic faculty, who has not been involved in the dissertation, will be appointed to chair the Defense.

The Defense will be conducted in an online classroom. It will normally last between 1 and 2 hours. It will start with a brief presentation of the dissertation by the student. There will then be an interactive discussion where the student will be expected to address any points raised by the examiners. The Dissertation Examining Committee will evaluate both the dissertation and the student’s performance in the oral examination to determine whether or not the student passes.

The Dissertation Examining Committee may request a number of revisions to be made to the dissertation. These will be presented to the student in writing. The student will be given 30 days to complete these revisions before submitting a copy of the revised dissertation electronically to the primary advisor. The primary advisor will consult with the other members of the dissertation examining committee to determine whether they approve of the final dissertation. The degree will be awarded when a majority of the dissertation examining committee approves the dissertation. Once the thesis has been accepted by the primary advisor it can be submitted electronically to AU and stored in their Ed.D. Dissertation Data Base.

Students must pass a Qualifying Exam after successfully completing at least five courses in order to continue in the program. A Qualifying Exam is administered each January. Students must complete all course work and successfully pass a Comprehensive Exam before advancing to the dissertation phase of the program.

*Comprehensive Exams are scheduled according to student need. Students who fail the Comprehensive Exam will be enrolled in a Study Term and assigned a professor to mentor them through the process of studying and synthesizing their coursework. They will pay the standard tuition and records fee for this support and to re-sit the exam.

Note: Failure to take a course when one is offered may prevent a student from completing his/her program in the allotted time, as all course work must be completed before a student will be allowed to advance to the dissertation phase of the program.

Message from Dr. Hayo Reinders, Doctor of Education in TESOL Program Director

“As Director it is my job to place our students first in everything we do. The Graduate School of Education has one of the best faculty teams in the world and together we aim to set the benchmark for online education. I look forward to sharing my passion for learning and teaching with you.”

- Ph.D. in Language Education from the University of Auckland
- Director of Innovation in Language Learning and Teaching, an educational consultancy
- Was Head of Learner Development at Middlesex University in London
- Was Director of the English Language Self Assess Centre at the University of Auckland
- Has been visiting professor in Japan, Thailand, Mexico and the Netherlands
- Editor of Innovation in Language Learning and Teaching, and Convenor of the AILA Research Network for CALL and the Learner

Message from Dr. Rod Ellis, Vice President of Academic Affairs, Doctor of Education in TESOL Program Designer and Senior TESOL Professor

“The Ed.D. is the latest addition to the menu of programs in TESOL offered by Anaheim University. The courses have been developed by some of the leading experts in the field — Gary Barkhuizen, Rod Ellis, Denise Murray, David Nunan, and Brian Tomlinson, among others. The program aims to introduce you to current thinking in TESOL and the various disciplines that inform it. It will provide you with the knowledge and technical expertise to enable you to carry out research relevant to the teaching and learning of English as a second or additional language.

The program consists of the following components:
- Studies in Applied Linguistics
- Aspects of Language Teaching
- Professional Development
- Researching Language Teaching
- Comprehensive Examination
- Dissertation

You will study using Anaheim University’s online course materials. There will be a weekly online class using the university’s state-of-art web-based classroom. You will become a member of a community of scholars exchanging views and ideas in the Discussion Forum. You will be asked to complete assignments that challenge you to use the knowledge and skills you have acquired to address cutting-edge issues in language pedagogy. You will be given guidance in developing a proposal for a dissertation and supported through the research you will need to undertake for it.

Studying for an Ed.D. with Anaheim University will be challenging. You will need commitment and hard work. But you will find it one of the most rewarding experiences of your life. I look forward to working with you.”

- Ph.D. from the University of London & Master of Education from the University of Bristol.
- His textbook The Study of Second Language Acquisition was awarded the Duke of Edinburgh Prize for the best book in applied linguistics
- Has served as the Director of the Institute of Language Teaching and Learning at the University of Auckland, and has taught in numerous positions in England, Japan, the US, Zambia and New Zealand.

Message from Dr. David Nunan, President Emeritus, Designer of the Master of Arts in TESOL Program, and Director of the David Nunan TESOL Institute

“Welcome to Anaheim University’s Ed.D. in TESOL program. Despite the fact that you are studying in very different contexts and situations in many different parts of the world, we aim to give you the same quality of care, concern and support as we would if you were studying in conventional face-to-face mode. I have been involved in directing post-graduate and Certificate programs in applied linguistics and language education in many different parts of the world for over thirty years. However, I have never been involved in better quality programs than these. In addition to their innovative means of delivery, the programs are distinctive in a number of important respects. In the first place, the program offers principled links between theory, research and practice. Procedurally, the material reflects the experiential, task-based philosophy being advocated for the teaching of foreign languages. The medium and the message are therefore in harmony. I look forward to traveling with you on this exciting educational voyage, and trust that you find the programs as rewarding to complete as I found them to create.”

Message from Dr. Luke Plonsky, Master of Arts in TESOL Program Director

“There are many facets to second language learning and teaching. I find, and I hope you will too, that it is this complexity that makes TESOL such a fascinating field of study. It is also a field that is constantly changing and evolving as new research and technologies emerge. Consequently, there is always something new to learn and experience. I very much look forward to working together and to further developing your skills and knowledge in this exciting field!”

- Ph.D. in Educational Psycholinguistics from Flinders University & Master of Education (Curriculum Studies) from the University of Exeter
- World’s leading author selling over 2,200,000,000 texts
- Past President of TESOL (1999-2000), the world’s largest language teaching organization
- Named one of the Top 50 Australians in the World & the 7th most influential Australian in Asia

Message from Dr. Denise Murray, TESOL Professor

“I am excited to be part of the team of faculty teaching this program because I value distance education, having experienced it firsthand myself. I completed much of my B.A. by distance—although in those days it was totally paper-based. I have been involved in English language education around the globe for more than thirty years, having developed an abiding love of language and its study from a very young age. While languages give us the opportunity to interact with people from different cultures, technology amplifies that opportunity.”

- Ph.D. in Second Language Studies from University of Michigan
- Georgetown University Dept. of Linguistics Asst. Professor
- Co-Director of IRIS: A digital repository of Instruments for Research into Second Language Learning and Teaching
- Associate Editor of Studies in Second Language Acquisition and Managing Editor of Foreign Language Annals

Message from Dr. MaryAnn Christison, TESOL Professor

“Welcome to Anaheim University. I am so pleased to be a part of the team of TESOL faculty members and so excited to work with you in some of your TESOL classes. Working in an online environment is exciting for me as a teacher because I get to work with you—students and teachers from all over the TESOL world, to learn about the challenges you face in English language teaching, and to work with you in finding solutions. Through this process I advance my own understanding of the world of English language teaching. There is always so much to learn about English language teaching no matter how many years one spends in the classroom. We are involved in a vibrant and expanding profession—expanding in terms of the number of teachers entering the profession and the amount of research about second language acquisition and second language pedagogy that we have available to us. I have been involved in the TESOL profession since 1976 and have worked as a language teacher and a teacher educator in many different contexts. I hope that I can draw on these experiences in my interactions with you to create an online environment that will be not only useful, but also exciting. I want you to feel that you have a community to which you belong. My research interests fall into three general categories—second language teacher development, teacher leadership, and language and the brain.”

- Ph.D. (English/Linguistics) from University of Utah
- Past President of TESOL (1997-1998) & Trustee for The International Research Foundation
- Teacher Educator for over 20 years working with teachers from over 30 countries
- Author of 18 textbooks and 80+ refereed journal articles
- Research interests in leadership, second language teacher development, and language and the brain
Message from Dr. Andy Curtis, TESOL Professor

“At the risk of too many welcomes, I would like to add my own to those of my distinguished colleagues. Although I have more than 20 years of experience in the field of TESOL, I am a newcomer to Anaheim University’s TESOL professorial team, and I am very much looking forward to working with the students, the other professors, and the AU administrative support team, and to teaching and learning online and face-to-face. Having recently completed many years in language program administration, starting in Canada and eventually in China, I have become especially interested in the challenges of leadership and management in language education.”

- Ph.D. in International Education and MA in Applied Linguistics, the University of York
- President of TESOL International (2015-2016)
- Former English Language Teaching Director at Chinese University of Hong Kong
- Has worked with more than 20,000 ELT professionals in more than 25 countries
- Received the TESOL Leadership Mentoring Award from the TESOL Association.
- Served as an elected member of the TESOL Board of Directors & numerous TESOL Committees and Task Forces

Message from Dr. Ken Beatty, TESOL Professor

“Consider this: a medical doctor from just 100 years ago would be both completely lost and completely useless in a modern operating room. However, a teacher from 1,000 years ago could probably get by in most modern classrooms. Anaheim University is addressing this by offering innovative programs in TESOL that teach in the ways that students will be taught in the future. Anaheim University offers a clever mix of online resources, lectures, and discussions as well as intensive residential sessions, all with the participation of some of the brightest minds in the field. This combination makes for a great learning experience. As Professor David Nunan’s first PhD student in Hong Kong, I have watched from afar as Anaheim University has grown and prospered. My research area of computer-assisted language learning (CALL) helps me understand the programs’ attractions and, after more than a decade of teaching and writing in Asia, Canada, and the Middle East, I’m proud to join Anaheim University’s growing faculty. I particularly look forward to working with students interested in researching and writing their dissertations in CALL.”

- PhD, Curriculum Studies, Faculty of Education, The University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong
- Taught the last 15 years at universities in the UAE, the People’s Republic of China and Hong Kong
- Author/co-author of more than 100 textbooks for Pearson, Longman, Oxford University Press, Thomson, Heinle & Heinle and Hong Kong Educational Press
- Involved in electronic media and was Academic Advisor to Hong Kong’s Educational Television from 1998 to 2004.
- Writes and reviews on the topic of computer-assisted language learning

Message from Dr. Martha Clark Cummings, TESOL Professor

“Welcome to this online adventure in teaching and learning. I, too, have been involved in English language teaching and teacher training for over 30 years and have been teaching online since 1999. What I have learned is that there is always more to learn and that online classrooms tend to be places where some of the most whole-hearted learning takes place. My research interests include narrative inquiry in Second Language Acquisition, classroom management, and observation. I look forward to our conversations.”

- Ph.D. from Teachers College Columbia University.
- Professor for online MA TESOL course for the New School Online University and The Monterey Institute of International Studies, as well as ESL courses for the University of Aizu in Aizuwakamatsu, Japan
- Has trained English language teachers in Cyprus, Thailand, Tunisia, and Turkey as part of the United States Department of State English Language Specialist Program
- Served on the Nominating Committee of TESOL and is currently a member of the Standing Committee on Diversity.
Message from Dr Brian Tomlinson, TESOL Professor

“I’m delighted to be joining the team of TESOL faculty members here at Anaheim and to be able to share my experience and enthusiasm as both a TESOL practitioner and an applied linguistics academic. I started my career, believe it or not, as a teacher trainer in Nigeria and only after that became a classroom teacher in Liverpool and then in Zambia. I moved on to being a curriculum developer in Zambia and then became a teacher trainer again. I continued as a teacher trainer in the UK and then in Vanuatu before becoming Director of Studies at a college in the UK. Since then I’ve been a university academic in Japan, the UK, Singapore and Oman but I’ve frequently returned to the language classroom as a teacher (for example as an EAP teacher in Oman). Throughout my career I’ve been interested in materials development and I’ve published coursebooks in China, Ethiopia, Japan, Nigeria, Singapore and Zambia, In the last fifteen years though I’ve specialised in publishing books, chapters and articles on materials development and I’ve focused on trying to bring researchers and practitioners together to ensure that the materials that teachers use in the classroom are principled and effective. To support this aim I formed the Materials Development Association (MATSDA) in 1993 and as Chair and now President I’ve been organising conferences and workshops throughout the world to bring together researchers, writers, teachers and publishers.”

- PhD from the University of Nottingham, MA in TESL from the University of North Wales and PGCE in TESL from the University of London.
- Founder and President of MATSDA (the International Materials Development Association).
- Visiting Professor at Leeds Metropolitan University. Formerly Visiting Professor at Kobe University, Visiting Fellow and Research Coordinator at the National University of Singapore, Curriculum Expert at Sultan Qaboos University, Oman, MA Director at the University of Luton and EFL Writer in Residence at the University of Essex. Also teacher, teacher trainer, curriculum developer and project leader in Nigeria, Zambia, UK, Vanuatu and Indonesia
- Editorial Associate for the Journal of Applied Linguistics and has many years experience in academic and educational editing and publishing
- Has published seven books on different aspects of materials development for language teaching as well books on language acquisition, language awareness and language through literature. Has also published numerous coursebooks and over 80 articles and chapters.

Message from Dr. Thom Hudson, TESOL Professor

“Welcome to the Ed.D. program at Anaheim University. TESOL is an exciting field, one that is constantly changing in its academic focus. I look forward to working with you in your academic areas of interest, particularly language testing and quantitative research. My research has focused on quantitative approaches to the study of language learning and use. One of my more recent interests has been in the area of standards based assessment and the personal and social consequences the implementation/imposition of those standards.”

Mission
Anaheim University was established as a unique, innovative and sustainable institution of higher learning to meet the educational needs of a diverse and global student body through academic programs of the highest quality. Dedicated to a student-centered philosophy, Anaheim University makes higher education accessible to qualified students worldwide through both online and on-campus study.

Anaheim University Objectives
Taking advantage of the newest technological innovations, Anaheim University is designed to be a sustainable global institution with a multicultural perspective, with programs designed to meet the needs of its diverse student population. To accomplish this, Anaheim University has the following objectives:

• Meeting the educational needs of our students by offering instructional programs otherwise unavailable because of access, cost, or work schedule
• Excellence of academic instruction through the guidance and expertise of dedicated faculty
• Provision of an instructional environment where students can take an active role in their own learning
• Utilization of the newest technologies
• Deployment of technology-based learning resources
• Development of interactive learning environments in both synchronous and asynchronous settings
• Support of an academic environment where professors are able to deliver the highest quality educational programs and take advantage of the University’s learning resources
• Regular course and program assessments and evaluation to improve our offerings
• Development and maintenance of a University alumni support system to advance alumni professional skills, knowledge, and expertise and help them realize their lifelong educational goals
• Development of University culture and programs promoting sustainability

About Us
Anaheim University was founded in Orange County, California in 1996. The University is accredited by the Distance Education Accrediting Commission (DEAC). The DEAC is listed by the U.S. Department of Education as a nationally-recognized accrediting agency. Anaheim University and its programs have been examined and found to meet the educational and business ethics standards set by the DEAC. The DEAC is recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA). The University also operates under the full approval of the State of California in accordance with the requirements set forth by the Bureau for Private Post-Secondary Education. “Approval to operate” means that the Bureau has determined and certified that the institution meets minimum standards established by the Bureau for integrity, financial stability and educational quality, including the offering of bona fide instruction by qualified faculty and the appropriate assessment of students’ achievements prior to, during, and at the end of each program. The University is authorized to grant graduate degrees at the masters and doctoral level under the degree-granting authority of the Bureau for Private Post-Secondary Education.

Policies and Procedures

AU Online Classrooms
Anaheim University Ed.D. in TESOL students meet in real-time interactive online classes with their professor and fellow students for ninety minutes every week during each of the courses. Transcripts of all online classes are recorded and are made available as soon as the class has been completed. This allows the students to stay focused on the live discussion during the class, and the opportunity to review the class discussion afterwards. For the schedule of the 90-minute online class times please see the University website.

AU Online Discussion Forum
The Online Discussion Forum is an electronic bulletin board and e-mail list facilitating lively communication and interaction among students and their professor. When a student posts a message to the Forum, the message is automatically redistributed to the professor and all other students in the course, allowing students to discuss the week’s readings in their free time. A weekly Student Host directs students to perform certain tasks as outlined in the online Course Guide. The Online Discussion Forum plays an integral part in AU’s online programs by facilitating the out-of-class interaction between students necessary for an effective exchange of ideas. The AU Online Discussion Forum ensures that learning and interaction does not end when the real-time class does.

Online Bookstore
The Online Bookstore is the one-stop source for textbook and course material needs. Designed for students to buy textbooks based on their course schedule, track their textbook orders, and sell their textbooks back from a previous semester, the Online Bookstore offers money-saving used books, multiple shipping options, and access to hundreds of academic items related to your studies. In an effort to provide additional savings, textbooks or course materials may be available for purchase in an electronic format. Purchases will be subject to the refund policy of the bookstore.

AU Alumni Association
Upon completion of their chosen programs of study, AU graduates have the privilege of becoming part of the university’s Alumni Association. The AU Alumni Association is a highly regarded online network established to ensure that an AU graduate’s learning never ends. The Alumni Association is an excellent way to network with other professionals in your field and keep abreast of recent developments. Members have access to the most recent updates regarding the latest news from the field, important events, suggested readings, cutting edge information and professional career opportunities.

Library
Anaheim University requires all of its students to make extensive use of library facilities and resources in the course of their program. The University’s online resources provide a major boost in assisting and supporting a student’s academic work. The login ID and password provided by the University to the student upon enrollment will provide the student access to the online resources.

Anaheim University makes certain provisions in order to provide access to library resources and library services for all students enrolled directly through Anaheim University. However, students enrolled in Anaheim University’s online graduate degree programs are required to have an additional reserve fund to be used for the purchase of journals and research materials that will aid them in their studies by providing information specific to their unique areas of interest and research - and to provide access to software and other resources that may help them in the completion of their studies. The research reserve fund is $1,500 for master degree students and $2,000 for doctoral students to be used over the duration of their program. Note: Students are not required to spend the entire research fund - only that amount necessary in order to carry out their research.

Student Services and TechSupport
The policy of the university is “Students First, Always” and Anaheim University’s Student Services staff is committed to providing students with the administrative services they need for course registration, textbook ordering, graduation, etc. Technical issues are addressed by the TechSupport Division of the University.

Graduation Store
Alumni of Anaheim University have the opportunity to show Anaheim pride by ordering Anaheim University graduation rings and diploma frames online.
